Docket no. EP 726

On time performance on passenger trains is very important. I want the ability to connect to other trains and other modes of transportation. I want to be able to make appointments on time. You can travel all through Europe and move from one mode to another with in minutes in between services all because the trains run on time.

Riding Amtrak can be an adventure especially when planning the schedule. On the long distance trains we must allow many hours between transferring which make is more time consuming and expensive. Amtrak trains should arrive between 10-15 minutes of their scheduled time. This would also increase business and save Amtrak money in fuel, wages, hotels etc.
