- Is there any consideration as to what will be done to control noise + vibration from the additional trains?

- What will happen if emergency response vehicles cannot get across the tracks? I had a fire in our home and the fire dept / emergency ambulance vehicles were able to quickly respond. Had there been a freight train in the way - there could have been loss of life not to mention further material damage had the emergency vehicles been delayed.

- We live near the tracks in a neighborhood filled with kids + pets. The safety issues by increasing the # of trains are huge. One child on a bike thinking they can get across before the train is truly an accident waiting to happen.
