Eobr's cause more accidents you feel like your racing against a clock you cannot sleep as well drivers are driving faster on the roads because they are tethered to a non forgiving machine , drivers take more chances you now see a lot of the big company drivers that have these eobr passing me and taking more chances driving when the machine tells them to in ice storms, etc and tells them when to sleep even though they are not ready for sleep. Please wake up Fmcsa people and stop always thinking about yourselves and revenue you have already made this trade nothing but a stress job for us.
